A General State of the st Mr. Michael Caton, as a token of his appreciation of his faithful services. Mr. Caton has been in Mr. Rives's office for more than twenty-fice years, and is now a venerable old man of about sixty years. AN OLD GRAVE-YAND. - There are many objects of interest in and about Washington; many pleasant walks and drives. Some of these places have peculiar attrac-tions, and are visited almost daily by those who have found something to awaken their finer and nobler emotions. In the ontskirts of the city, between 13th and 14th streets, there is an old grave-yard; it is abandoned now, for the fence is all gone, and many of the graves have been re-epened and the bodies of friends removed to some more fitting receptacle. Besides, there are other traces of neglect, and worse still, the hand of the ruffian is visible on many a fair monument and tribute of affection. Many of the grave-stones have been used as targets for marksmen, and there are but few that are entirely free from the defacing of the vandals who infest this Christian city.

Of those that have escaped, and that awaken the most touching interest, are the grayes of two little children n the most neglected part of the grave-yard, overgrown with moss and ivy, and surrounded with a thick growth of weeds and grass. We can imagine nothing more touching than the inscription on their headstones:
"Our Baby," and "Little Jo." What a wealth of affection is here exhibited, and how their parent's hearts must have been wrung by their loss! We fancy "Our Baby" a sweet little girl, of some five or six summers, only fit for Heaven, and "Little Jo," a sweet little boy of one or two years, the pride of his father, the joy of his mother, and the petted darling of the household. Who could visit this spot of a calm evening and not be reminded of the shortness of life, and the need of a preparation for the death which is before him? Who could dwell upon their innocence without a tug at his heart-strings, a yearning for the good and the true, an impulse

THE PRESIDENT'S MOURTED GUARD were on parade yeserday, attended by Esputa's Band, to celebrate their fifth auniversary. They mustered in full force, and looked finely, as they always do. At noon they visited the residence of Capt. Peck, where a bountiful collation had been prepared for their entertainment. After discussing the good things before them, several toasts were drank, which were appropriately responded to. Capt. P. remarked that there were now belonging to the corps only two of the original members, one of whom was the Quartermaster Sergeant, James A. King, to whose efficiency and zeal they had on many occasions been indebted. The company also drank the health of their fair hostess, whose good taste was conspicuous in the arrangements that had been made for their reception. The following toast, given by Orderly Sergeant McCutchen, is too good to be omitted, as it comprises the names of many of the active nembers of the corps : "A Piper for music, a Wall for defence, A Fisher for music, a Was for sense,

A Smallwood for fuel, a Camon for noise,
Towers of strength, and a Birch for the boys;
A Peck for a measurer,

A Bien for us all, Owen our treasurer, And a King very small."

The company then proceeded to Georgetown, and rearned in the evening, having enjoyed themselves finely during the day.

play of "Richard the Third" attracted a large and fashonable audience to the Theatre, who were delighted with the performance, if we may judge from the enthusiastic applause with which it was greeted. MADEMOISELLE PARODI'S FAREWELL CONCERTS. -This dislinguished cantatrice, before leaving this country, has consented to make a tour in connexion with Strakosch's rand concert company, and will sing at Philharmonic Hall on Tuesday night next. The eminent planist and composer, Gustav Satter, will preside; and, in addition, we shall be favored with the unrivalled performances of Herr Mollenhauer on the violoncello. M'dlle Parodi is accompanied by Miss Annie Kemp, who has attained an enviable distinction in Boston and other northern cities as a contralto; Mr. Harrison Millard, tenor, and M. Funca, basso. Of course, the hall will be crowded; for uch a musical treat is rarely offered to our citizens, and we know they will improve the opportunity to express their appreciation of genuine talent.

ROBBED.—We learn from the Philadelphia papers that Mr. David Byron, one of the operators attached to the magnetic telegraph company in this city, was knocked down and robbed of his carpet bag on Thursday night at Front and Gray's alley, in Philadelphia. It appears that Mr. Byron arrived in the evening train from New York, and was walking up Front street, when he was attacked by two men, who threw him down and took his carpet bag from him, and were about rifling his pockets, when a cab came by, causing the robbers to leave their victim.

THE CANAL .- The Chesapeake and Ohio Canal is now doing a flourishing business. The receipts of tells at the collector's office at Georgetown for the week ending on Saturday last were $4,409 21.

THE UNION PRAYER MEETINGS will be continued every day during the present week at the Thirteenth-street Baptist church, commencing at a quarter before five o'clock, p. m.

THE PIC-NIC yesterday at Arlington Springs, by the Washington Light Infantry, passed off agreeably and pleasantly. It was a delightful day, and all who were present enjoyed themselves to their heart's content.

T. VINCENT'S SCHOOLS.—The Day-schools attached to St. Vincent's Asylum will resume business on Wednesday next, lat of September. The large addition lately made to the house affords a fine opportunity of rearranging the schools, and after the experience of last year they will begin this term with very many advantages. There are, in fact, three distinct schools at St. Vincent's: the Orphana'School, the Free School for day scholars, and the Pay School. The first is, of course, for the orphan inmates of the Arylum, who, in their discipline and education, are under the immediate care of Sixters detailed for themselves. The second, or Free School, is to meet the wants of poor children, whose parents cannot pay, and all who are thus circumstanced are earnestly pressed to send their children to this school. It is entirely distinct, but just as dilligently attended to as any other, the training and tosching being strictly alike it all. If the results be not always what might be desired, perhaps it is also if the school of the orphanic and their children long enough at school. The third is the Pay School. The Sisters of Charity have a Pay School only in aid of the charties required for the support of the orphanic. In this school it is literally true that the Sisters (soch, works, and earn for the orphana, as it is also true that all who send their children there really so far contribute to support the orphanic, and it this were not so, the Sisters of Charity would not be permitted to keep a Pay School. All that is truly required for the practical purposes of life, all that constitutes a sound and therough English education, is well neight in this school; and in all its circumstances, its charitable object, its method of outivating mind and heart, there is no more interesting or more important school for girk within the Bisters, combining under a very Judicious management, comparatively little expense to percuts with a full average improvement of the children.

A Tyson and Sisters, for boarding pupils, situated on the Baltimore and Washington Relifread, 16 miles from Washington etty. The duties of this institution, which has been established for eighteen years, will be resumed on the 15th of September. Circulars may be had by application to the Seminary, or at Dr. Tyson's, corner of I and 10th streets, Washington.

Letters directed to Laurel Factory postoffice will be promptly attended to.
